The Divine Visitation The Story of a Life that Encountered the Holy Spirit

By Sarah Jansson, From my book, "The Divine Visitation"

Well, from start to finish (not that I'm finished yet - lol), it seems my life has been outside the box, where my Christian experience is concerned, and even how I came to know the Lord.

My former husband and I were renting the top floor of my parent's five-story apartment building in New York. The attic apartment was big and spacious, which was great because, at the time, we had two young sons and needed the room. It came complete with a wonderful view because it overlooked the bridge going from Staten Island to Brooklyn. That was special to me because Staten Island, New York, is where I was born and bred.

One day my parents came by and told us that they were going to sell the building and move to Florida. That put us in an awkward position, so we started looking for another place to live in Staten Island, but nothing was available. We were out of ideas and new places to look when we got a call from the man who had convinced my parents to move. He said there was a house for rent just a block away from where my parents were building their new home. On top of that, it was only two hundred dollars a month. Back then, paying two hundred dollars to rent an apartment in New York was unheard of. He said it was a nice house in a nice area, and if we wanted it, we would have to make up our minds right away. We had very little money, no job waiting for us, and my parents were not moving there for at least another year. We had never been to the West Coast of Florida. We didn't know anyone there except this guy on the phone and his family. And we didn't know them very well at all.

Now, I was a Catholic. Every family member and every one of my ancestors had also been Catholic; as a Sicilian Italian, what else would you be? But I had lived like the world all my life, doing all the ritualistic Catholic things, but had no relationship with God at all. I had grown up in a dysfunctional family, where there was a lot of physical and verbal abuse going on, so I was out in the streets looking for love at the age of fifteen. I got into one relationship after another, looking for love in all the wrong faces and in all the wrong places. I was drinking, smoking, sucking on lots and lots of weed, some uppers and downers, going into bars, and living totally like the world every chance I got. Even after getting married and having two young children, I still lived like the world. But with all my dark past, the devil couldn't keep me or hold me down, as the call of God was upon my life, and Jesus was going to have His way. Glory to God! I had been to several Catholic Charismatic prayer meetings, and I liked all the singing, clapping, jumping, etc., but I didn't understand much more. I had gotten very, very sick shortly after that, and the devil told me that it was because I stepped outside the Catholic church. And having two small children, I didn't want to make a huge mistake. I knew that I needed the insight of an all-knowing God to help me make the right decision concerning this move. So, I went before the large cloth picture of the Sacred Heart of Jesus above our bed and prayed. "Lord, if we're supposed to go to Florida to live, open the doors all the way and make it clear to us. If not, then close the doors. You see, Jesus, I won't have anyone when and if we leave Staten Island. You'll have to be my Papa". Now I know that I know that I know that I know that this was the moment that I was born again. This was the moment I opened my heart to the Lord. However, at the time, I did not know what "Born Again" was. I had never even heard the term before. I was there alone in my bedroom, giving my heart to the Lord and turning to Him in sincere prayer, as I needed direction from the all-seeing God, that would know what was best for me to do. I can see all of this as if it were yesterday. It is still so very clear to me! That evening, I was by myself sitting at the kitchen table, gazing out the window, and I knew that it was God's will for us to move to Florida. I just felt it inside of me and knew that I knew that we were to go even though we had never been there before. Suddenly, I saw, with the eyes of my spirit, the Holy Spirit like a dove coming through the kitchen window. Now, remember, I was a Catholic. I didn't read the bible, and I lived like the world. But when the Holy Spirit decided to visit me, I suddenly became profoundly aware of His entry. There was no mistake about it. I knew the Holy Spirit when He showed up. Yes, there was no mistake that it was Him. I was ready to receive the Holy Spirit but had been told that only special people receive the gift of Tongues, so I didn't expect what was about to happen to me. Surprisingly, and without even thinking about it, I started singing in the. Continued to Page: 6

From Trauma to Triumph: Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner Tracey Rzepka's Journey Through Drugs, Rape, and A call to Africa

By Tracey Rzepka

My father died when I was 17 months old, and my sister was two weeks old. That was the start of my journey. My mom was not happy since this was her second husband who died. As a teenager, I rebelled and was involved in drugs, sex, and rock and roll.

However, I still managed to graduate from high school at 16 and complete a two-year RN nursing program at a community college by age 18. At age 20, I was facing severe consequences of my rebellion, so I prayed and told God if he would get me out of this mess, I would do whatever he wanted me to do. Thankfully, God helped me get through it and get on the right track. I moved to FL and started attending church, quit smoking cigarettes, drugs, and eventually stopped drinking. I had been baptized as a baby in the Catholic church, then again at the age of 10 in a Baptist church. At the age of 21, I was baptized at Turtle Beach in Sarasota. This baptism marked a turning point for me. I felt cleansed and began living a different life, faithfully involved in church since then. I returned to school at USF in Tampa to become an Adult Nurse Practitioner at the age of 28. While there, I became in-involved with the Christian Medical and Dental Association, which focused on both domestic and overseas mis- Continued on Page: 7

The Spirit Of Truth:
FAITH OF OUR FATHERS

By Rev. Madeline Montez Duffany

"Faith of Our Fathers, living still"...is a hymn written in 1849 by Frederick Willian Faber.

I was thinking about faith through the ages, of Christian martyrs who were persecuted and killed for their religious beliefs. Mainly, I think about Jesus Christ on the Cross of Calvary who gave His life so that we all could be saved and free of sin. (John 3:16). That was in the past. Today, there are still martyrs because of their steadfast faith – people who have undergone severe persecution and torture and death for their faith in God and even for the course of human justice. Pastors are put in jails for not closing their churches. Seniors are hounded and even jailed for their stand and their protests against abortion (murder of children), a despicable act on the part of mothers and doctors. People are labeled political prisoners for standing up for God and country. This is happening right now in our present time, even in our own country.

Menno Simons was a religious reformer in the 1500's in Europe. The Mennonite Church is a form of Protestant Christianity named for him. Mennonites believe in the Trinity of God: God the Father; God the Son; and God the Holy Spirit. The 'Trail of Tears' occurred between 1830 and 1850 when approximately 60,000 people of the "Five Civilized Tribes" and other Native Americans were ethnically cleansed by the United States government. There have been many 'peace' treaties, but all have been broken, mainly by the U.S. government authorities. From 1863 to 1869 roughly 15,000 Chinese migrants built the first transcontinental railroad in the United States, a labor force of men with sweat and muscle, faced with laying the tracks over the looming Sierra Nevada Mountains and parched deserts of the West. Evil organizations – gangsters – paid the passage for Chinese people to come to the United States for a better life, but then enslaved them in harsh, cruel labor. Today, migrants are enslaved and persecuted in horrendous activities, migrants who come to America for a better life. May God please help them.

In the 300 years between 1500 A.D. and the end of the slave trade in the 1860's, at least twelve million Africans were forcibly taken to America to live as slaves.

During the Second World War (1939 to 1945) The Japanese forces occupying The Philippine Islands practiced genocide and village burning until the end of the Spanish colonialism and the occupation of the Philippine Nation by the United States. During that time, the United States, due to insurgents among the Filipinos resulted in scorched earth tactics including burning villages of the people. The Philippine Islands gained their independence on July 4, 1946.

Today, people of different races and those with disabilities face discrimination everywhere, though it may be denounced on a national basis.

Yet, throughout all of history people have had hope and faith to overcome many times and situations of terror, enslavement and despair. It is the Christian Missionary duty to embrace moral Godly values in themselves, that they might instill in others faith, hope, love, and salvation. Social class, race and religion must be overlooked and tolerated when reaching out to help those less fortunate. As our world becomes increasingly more challenged to be an encouragement and a Light in the Darkness, we must faithfully face things which come to disrupt and try to overthrow what we stand for. Faith – Hope – Love are never out of season!

We love our country, this United States of America, which was established by the will of God and Godly people, and still pray and bless those who stand for righteousness in this land.

And, during this Labor Day season, and always, let us remember who we are and Who we represent: Jesus Christ, our Savior, Redeemer, and Deliverer, Who loves us enough to give His very life on our behalf. Let us remember the "Faith of Our Father."

HOW TO BE EFFECTIVE IN GOD'S ARMY

America! "Weighted in the Balances and Found Wanting"

By Ken Carpenter September 1989
elderkc134@gmail.com

America, there was a time when you never slept. The desire for good and right burned within your heart because you loved God and earnestly tried to live by His Word, so the Lord blessed you beyond all the nations, a land of plenty, blessed in liberty. At times, you would take your rest and forget God's Commands. At the Lord's discipline, you would fall on your knees and say, Lord, heal our land, for we have sinned. Then faithful to His Word, we became a nation of great wealth, of gold and silver, iron and wood. Rivers and springs flowing forth in valleys and hills; a land of wheat and barley; the breadbasket of the world! A land of shipping and great harbors. America, your people led the world in music, are the best craftsmen, and have the finest products known the world over! Then, slowly, seductively, a change begins to take place. The preachers, for the most part, slowly took the fear of the Lord out of the land. Peace and safety; prosperity; no pain, slowly like a moth and a rottenness; America has fallen asleep groggy from abundant food and careless ease; America has become arrogant & haughty and has forsaken the poor and needy! Your every continued thought is on entertainment. The church was too busy counting numbers and building with straw and bricks to notice the condition of America, so prayer was taken out of the schools. The church slept on till America started killing her children. Things got a little less moral, but it was a very subtle change, and hardly even noticed. Besides, it's good for the people to have all the rights that they deserve; besides, America is the land of the

"And it shall come about if you ever forget the Lord your God, and go after other gods and serve them and worship them, I testify against you today that you shall surely perish." (Deuteronomy 8:19)
Not only have we forgotten the Lord, but our judges are fighting God! So our land is being consumed by foreign nations. Our money is becoming worthless. Our rulers are rebels and companions of thieves. Our cities are becoming war zones. Our land is being stripped of its fullness right before our eyes and dusted white in cocaine as it falls under divine curses because God is out - casual sex, infidelity, easy divorce, the use of drugs, and radical lifestyles are in! The once-strong foundations have settled. The people have fallen into falsehood, and the walls of protection have crumbled into rubble, lying in ruins. But now, the subtle changes have turned into a trickle. The trickle has turned into a stream; next is the flood. Now sin can march down main street demanding rights; wrong can walk over right; lust can trample love. Greed is first; honesty is last. Bribes can be expected. Integrity is not expected; light is illegal; darkness is legal. Pleasure has replaced work. Curses have replaced blessings. The lifeblood of 23 million innocent children is crying from the ground for justice, and you refuse to be ashamed!
An end in this is coming; it is here at the door. Your doom has come, America! Four dark figures are coming out of the north, tumult rather than joyful shouting; shortly, he who has a belt will wear a rope, and he who has plenty will rent his clothes and tear at his hair.

Arrogance has blossomed, violence has grown into a rod of wickedness, and you will be judged according to your sins; you will choke on your own abominations. Your hands were hanging limp, your knees will become like water, a disaster, a unique disaster. Behold, it is coming. America, America, land of the plenty, one day you will hold your cup out like a beggar, asking the nations for morsels, but you will get chains instead!
The watchmen on the wall have blown the trumpet warning, but you are asleep, at ease in Zion. Saying peace where there is no peace and safety where there is a war going on. Disaster will come upon disaster. You have sown the wind now you will reap the whirlwind!
He that has ears, let him hear; the farms are being wrested from those which know and love them, and their control is in the hands of the few. And slowly, like a month and a rottenness, the life streams of America are being choked, and in it's agony, economic disaster will follow. There should be a hue and cry in the land. A cry of unbelief; this can't happen to America, a land of plenty! There will be death rather than life; hunger rather than feast, rags instead of clothes; lack replaces plenty, chains instead of freedom! The streets will be filled with violence, and crime will explode. Great fear will fill the land, tumult rather than joy, hate instead of love; dread will fill the day; the earth will shake, the wind will blow, and water will flow! What a price to pay for all your rights and choices. The blood of your children is crying from the ground, America. You can't even blush anymore, for you have trampled holy and precious things underfoot.

Finding God in the Elevator

By Robin Art

Did you know you can lead people to the Lord in the elevator? That's right. Just get alone with a stranger in the elevator. Sounds crazy? Maybe a little. Last year, I had to visit a physical therapy office three times per week, which happened to be on the third floor of a three-story building. So three times a week I found myself in the elevator. Each day I entered the elevator to go home, people would inevitably enter to leave as well. As I reached to push the down arrow; it was of course, quite obviously the direction they wanted to go; to exit the third floor obviously there were no other choices. One day, I asked the person who entered which way they were going. Silly question, right? "Down please," they replied with an amused kind of smile. "Down it is then", I replied, smiling back. Instantly the ice was broken. We now had a rapport. I quickly discovered I could do that with everybody! You know how uncomfortable people always feel when people enter an elevator? Everybody just looks ahead awkwardly, enduring the ride until it's over, you know? I had found that I could put people at ease in an otherwise awkward situation. I also knew that for that one minute or so, I had their complete undivided attention. I began asking them this question. The conversations would go something like this: So where do you want to go: up or down? "Down please, they would reply." Then came my big question: "So, Where do you want to go in 100 years? Up or down?" I quickly discovered that in an elevator, with that one question, people will tell you exactly where they stand with the Lord - Every Time! Believe it or not, I was able to lead many people to the Lord in the time it took to go from the third floor to the first and part as friends by the time the elevator doors opened back up!

This became just a whole lot of fun for me as I realized how easy this was. I learned that when you ask people where they're going in 100 years, you will generally get one of three responses. Initially, they will stare at you like a "deer in the headlights" for a moment until it dawns on them what I just asked. Then, they will always smile. After that, they will either light up and exclaim with joy that they are going "up" (to heaven) in 100 years because they have given their lives to Jesus. Some will even expound with something like, "Oh yes, Honey, I know I'm going because I'm a blood-bought child of the most high king: Jesus Christ, my hope in glory!!!" "Wow, at that time, they may even give me a high-five as they leave. I exit the door amused, rejoicing with them. Only two times upon asking someone where they're going in 100 years did I get a negative response. One of those times, the man actually ran from me, and I'm only 5ft 3 and 125 lbs. But you have to develop a thick skin. Think of it this way. You will only have to be with them for one minute. You've already asked them the initial question of which way they want to go: up or down. Hearing this silly question always disarms them and gets them to smile. After that, if they don't like your next question about where they're going in 100 years, understand this: They may reject you. (So what?) Even if they say something ugly as they walk away, you must just say to yourself, O.K. then, I'll never see them again anyway! Pray for them as they leave. Maybe they'll never come to the Lord. Maybe they will. But you did get them to think about their eternity. Who knows? Maybe one day they will come to Christ, and you were the one who planted the seed. The third type of response you will get is, "Well, yes, I do want to go up. I (hope) I will any way, but nobody can really know for sure until we get there, right? To which I respond, "Oh, Honey, you can know today for Certain. The Bible says if you believe in your heart that Jesus died for your sins and gave His life on the cross for you and rose again, and you confess him as Lord, you can know for certain that if you died tonight, you would go to heaven. It's all about a personal relationship with Him. At that point I am now leading them in the sinner's prayer. Sometimes people will share with me that they did invite Jesus into their heart a long time ago but that they later turned away from Him and they are afraid they've gone too far, and that God would never accept them back. At that point, I offer to lead them in a prayer of repentance and re-commitment to the Lord, and they leave there with a clear conscience and renew their relationship with God. Have you ever wondered how to open a conversation about God and what to say? What an easy way to break the ice, develop a quick rapport, and get right down to the question you want to know. You may be surprised. There are people everywhere who want to know if they are going to heaven and what they have to do to get there. For many people, it's their biggest question, and they are waiting for someone to help them understand. What an easy, fun way to lead someone to the Lord. I have given you an outline. I believe the Lord gave it to me. If you've never known how to open a conversation about heaven, or if it seems too big for you, just try it once. Find a three-story building. If you think you need more floors, find a taller building. Just start at the top. Go to the top floor and ask God to send you someone. Ask God to prepare their heart. When they show up, get in first and ride it down. Ask them which way they are going, up or down. Then, after you break the ice, you'll be surprised how easy the conversation goes. By the time you've reached the first floor, you may have led someone to the Lord. I've done it many, many times, and You can do it too!

A Kiss from the Lord

By Rev. Judy Miles

New Beginnings Ministry
newbeginings2024@yahoo.com

Thank you. Father. I want to share something that happened to me this week. It has never happened in all my Christian experiences. In my heart. I am just overjoyed, filled to overflowing. Praise God Friday morning, sometime between 3 and 4 am. A presence came into my bedroom. I thought sure it was my husband, Duke. But they came to my bed. I was not fully asleep. I felt hands placed on each side of the bed, then a gentle kiss on my forehead. Wow. How beautiful. What makes it more awesome is what I said to Duke: "I felt you come in and kiss me this morning. What was that?" He said, "I hate to disappoint you, baby, but it wasn't me." I had been struggling in a battle. Something's going on. Nobody knew about it. I asked the Lord to reveal himself to me. The Lord revealed to me about His beloved sephine was in the guest room. But I sat on that I remember it put a couch, and I just grabbed smile on my heart. Then I turned over and went back to sleep; I thought it was so out of the norm for Duke to come in and kiss me on my forehead. Then, that very same morning, at around 5.30 am, Duke was sitting at the computer. We were getting ready for God is Real. I was in the front room, and I was moving

Christian Vote 'More Crucial Than Ever' During 2024 U.S. Presidential Election, Says Allied Groups

News Provided By I AM PR

Allied Groups

New survey predicts nearly one-third of Christians will stay home -- 'unless we turn it around'

Christians Engaged and the Family Policy Alliance Foundation have announced they are joining forces to rally one million social conservatives to vote at the upcoming 2024 U.S. Presidential election.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 22, 2024 / Christian Newswire/ -- Two Christian groups have announced they are joining forces to rally one million social conservatives to vote at the upcoming 2024 U.S. Presidential election. The announcement by Christians Engaged and the Family Policy Alliance Foundation comes amid concern that millions of "reluctant voters" identifying as socially conservative Christians might not cast a ballot. During the previous presidential election, an estimated 25 million churchgoers reportedly did not make it to the polls. "Friends, Jesus is not on the ballot. We may have to choose between imperfect candidates," said Bunni Pounds, founder of Christians Engaged. "We need to look at what the candidate says they believe and what the political party they stand for believes?" Pounds added that when we cast our vote for President "we are voting for the person who will hire the entire executive branch of government, and Members of Congress will, for the most part, follow their leadership, so we need to understand what they believe."

According to a new Barna survey conducted by Arizona Christian University, nearly one-third of evangelicals do not participate in elections, which could mean millions of Christians are going to be missing from the 2024 presidential election and other important elections – unless we turn this situation around.

The survey also showed that "theologically defined evangelicals" are no more likely than anyone else to be attentive to news about politics and government. Christian Voice 'More Crucial Than Ever' "In today's complex and often challenging political landscape, the voice of Christian conservatives is more crucial than ever," said Pounds, a former Political Consultant and Congressional candidate. "Our communities are frustrated by policies that contradict biblical values, yet many feel disempowered and disconnected from the political process," she said. Craig DeRoche, CEO of Family Policy Alliance Foundation, said the joint effort to muster one million socially conservative Christian voters was "not merely about winning elections."

It's about "instilling a legacy of biblical values and responsible voting habits in both current and future generations," he said. In the 2022 U.S. midterm elections, Christians Engaged invited Texans to commit to vote in every election.

Nearly 92% of those making a commitment actually voted in the 2022 Midterms including 20% who'd never voted before, the organization said.

"An active Christian electorate can shape policies that protect religious freedoms, family values and the sanctity of life," Pounds said.

Christians Engaged will hold a conference in the Dallas area, Sept. 27-28, that Pounds hopes will "inspire Christians to pray, vote and engage." The organization also produces video curriculum to educate Christians about "civics, politics and biblical world-view."

A Kiss from the Lord

From Page:4 ... just wrapped it and just began to call on Jesus. He took the pain." Then I went into the war room. And the spirit of laughter came on me about a half hour into prayer. And He laughed and laughed through me. And you know what? It just made the devil that much madder. Because Jesus had come in, kissed me, and left me with a smile. Comforted by the Holy Spirit within me, and then he thought, okay, I'll show her, I'll mess her up. But then, when the spirit of laughter came upon me, I came out of that war room free as a kite, lite as a feather, hanging free, hallelujah. Being the gentleman and the husband Duke is, he told me today you're not doing anything; you're going to rest. You know what? Come dinner hour, I was there preparing dinner for us! God is so good to me. This toe is pain-free. Hallelujah. And I thank God Jesus cares enough about us that He will come to us and reveal His love to us however He needs to do it.

America! "Weighted in the Balances and Found Wanting"

From Page:3 ...You will taste loss, for your enemy has deceived you into laying your sword down and taking off your breastplate. He will turn on you and burn you with fire! And a day of great confusion and in a time of false peace. Parts of you will burn like Sodom because America has engaged in conflict with the Lord; you have been given much, much is required! But what about your people, the ones bought with the blood of Christ, will they suffer? "And what more shall I say? For time will fail me if I tell of Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah of David and Samuel, and the prophets, who by faith conquered kingdoms, performed acts of righteousness, obtained promises, shut the mouth of lions, quenched the power of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, from weakness were made strong, became mighty in war, put foreign armies to flight, women received back their dead by resurrection, and others were tortured, not accepting their release, in order that they might obtain a better resurrection and others experienced mocking and scourgings, yes also chains and imprisonment. They were stoned, they were sawn in two, they were tempted, they were put to death with the sword, they went about in sheepskins, and goatskins being destitute, afflicted, ill treated (men of whom the world was not worthy) wandering in caves and holes in the ground." (Hebrews 11:32-38) "By faith Noah, being warned by God about things not yet seen, in reverence prepared an ark for the salvation of his household, by which he, condemned the world, and became an heir of the righteousness which is according to faith. (Hebrews 11:7) We, by faith, must remember the faithfulness of God's Word. Heaven and earth will pass, but not one dot or tittle will fail; when the shaking comes, God's people may be eating beans instead of steak, and we may be living with each other, sharing lives, working in the same garden for food to sustain our bodies, but we will fix our eyes on Jesus the Author and perfecter of faith. We will learn to hang on the horns of the altar like Elijah. "Elijah was a man with a nature like ours, and he prayed earnestly that it might not rain, and it did not rain on the earth for three years and six months. (James 5:17) Elijah had a nature like us, but we are not a people of earnest prayer like Elijah! Much of our praying is giving God advice or ambition for our wants or for our church. Remember, it is His honor that is being defiled; His blessed son that is hated; His laws are broken; His name profaned; His book forgotten; His house has drifted and will become a social club.

club. At the very doors of our churches are the masses unwon because they are unreached, unreached because they are unloved. Why? We have become lukewarm! "So because you are lukewarm and neither hot nor cold, I will spew you out of my mouth. (Revelation 3:16) Just as sure as the sun sets and rises are these words, the only thing holding back the flood of judgment is the dam of mercy and grace; it is cracking more and more every day. My people search for me while I can be found and throw off the chains of this world and lay down the gods of mammon. I am knocking, open up and enter in my rest, for I am a wall of fire, a stronghold in the day of trouble! And that day is here! In Jesus name, Ken Carpenter

Jesus Breaks Every Curse, Even the Witchdoctor

By Daniel & Jessica King | www.kingministries.com

People in Africa are intensely aware of the supernatural world in a way that the Western world often does not understand. They believe in curses, and they often go to witchdoctors in search of a cure or a benefit. For example, a businessman might go to the witchdoctor and pay her to cast a spell upon his business rival. A barren woman might ask the witchdoctor for a potion to help her get pregnant. The witchdoctor makes money off of curses, so there is often a spiritual struggle when a Gospel crusade comes to town. One night, a witch doctor came to our crusade. She intended to walk through the crowd and place a curse on Christian believers. But as she walked around, she found that her magic was not working. She stopped to listen to the message and heard about how Jesus has the power to break every curse. She was convicted by the Holy Spirit for her evil ways of living, and she decided to cry out to Jesus for salvation. She repented of her witchcraft, and she was saved! I pointed to two big barrels on the field and said to the crowd, "Tomorrow night, we are going to burn every work of Satan. I want you to bring your juju beads, your witchcraft charms, and anything that represents your life of sin. We are going to burn everything in the barrels and send the devil's curses to the fires of hell." The following night, the former witchdoctor brought a paper with the names of all of her curses written down. She came to the front and threw the cursed paper into the barrel. We doused the contents of the barrel with gasoline and threw a match in. Woosh! The fire burned hot. Our team of intercessors danced around the burning barrels and shouted, "Jesus! Jesus!" From the platform, I proclaimed, "Jesus breaks every curse. When Jesus died on the cross, He destroyed the power of sin and the power of Satan. Be free from every evil curse in Jesus' name." Be Filled with the Holy Spirit The fourth night at our crusade in Gandajika, Congo, was Holy Spirit night. I preached on the three greatest miracles in the Bible. Creation, Calvary, and Pentecost. Creation: At creation is where we see God the Father's greatest work. I told the crowd, "God created you. You are made in the image of God. You are God's special creation." I explained that God created the first man and woman, Adam and Eve, to be His friends. Every day, God walked and talked with them in the Garden of Eden. But one day, they disobeyed God, and this sin broke their fellowship with God. I told everyone, "You were created to be God's friend, but your sin separates you from God." Calvary: At the hill named Calvary, we see God the Son's greatest work when Jesus Christ died on the cross to pay the price for our sins. I announced, "At Calvary, Jesus saved you." Jesus, the Son of God, came from heaven to earth. Every day He walked and talked with His disciples. Then Jesus gave his life so we could once again have fellowship with the Father. The price for sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus. The crowd listened intently as I explained, "If you will call on Jesus, He will forgive your sin, and you will be saved." Pentecost: The day of Pentecost is where we see God the Holy Spirit's greatest work. One hundred and twenty disciples were gathered together in the upper room when suddenly, a mighty wind began to blow. Tongues of fire rested on every head, and they were filled with the Holy Spirit. Now, the Holy Spirit wants to come walk and talk with every believer. I prayed for everyone to be filled with the Holy Spirit. As the thousands of people began to pray in the Holy Spirit, it sounded like the roar of a mighty lion. You Are a Blessing Standing in front of a crowd of thousands, I am keenly aware that I am not standing alone. You are there with me with your prayers and your financial support. We would not be able to preach the Gospel without your help and the help of others who have a passion for reaching the lost. Thank you! You are a blessing. Winning the Lost at Any Cost, Our Goal? Every Soul!

The Divine Visitation: The Story of a Life that Encountered the Holy Spirit

From Page 1 ...most beautiful prayer language I have ever heard. Wow! It was spectacular. I sang for a very long time in the Spirit. There is something about your first love language that nothing ever seems to compare to it! Now remember, no one was coaching me by saying, "Now repeat these sounds after me". No one was there at all. I didn't even fully comprehend what I was doing. The only teaching I had on the subject was completely wrong. But here it was, and it was wonderful, absolutely awesome, and beautiful. I had no doubts that it was God! Right after I stopped singing in the Spirit, I saw Jesus coming through my hallway into my kitchen and standing in front of me. I had never seen Him before, except in those church pictures, and I believed that these things happened to Catholic saints but not to people like me; especially with the past that I had. When Jesus came and stood in front of me, I knew it was Him, even though He was in the Spirit. He was dressed in a long white glowing robe. The whole time I was in the Spirit for the very first time in my life. I had no idea what was really happening to me except it was the most beautiful, glorious experience

I had ever had. It was so awesome. It was so intense that if the manifestation of Jesus had been any stronger, He could have easily been there physically. He offered His hands and said for me to put my hands in His. When I did, I could feel the edge of His sleeves. He asked me if I wanted to have more of a manifestation of Him, but I was too awestruck to say anything. I sure wish that I could have spoken up. Wow! When my family came home, I told them all that had happened. But they said I had been working too hard and should slow down. But that night started the beginning of the rest of my life! After we moved to Florida, little by little, the Lord took me by the hand and took me on the journey I'm on today. Although all my family was Catholic, little by little, the Holy Spirit in my life brought many of them into the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. (Through me? The Black Sheep of the family? YES, me!). I was on Fire for God, and with the Fire of God in my life, ready to manifest that Fire anywhere to anyone He sent me. I even saw my angel not long afterward and received several angelic visitations. And they gave me instructions according to Scripture. God placed me on the path of the Faith Movement and the Mighty Manifestations of His Holy Spirit and gave me a strong Foundation to be built on. I was in love with God and couldn't get enough of Him and the things of the Spirit. I was on fire with and for the Spirit of the Living God. There were times when I would pray for people at Meetings that the Spirit of the Lord would manifest so mightily that the only one standing when it was all said and done was me! I was on fire for the Lord even then and wanted to be in ministry. But I still needed deliverance and generational doors shut, soul ties broken, strongholds pulled down, curses nullified, and my heart healed. I still needed lots and lots of Inner healing from past hurts, un-dealt with issues and unmet needs, and my mind renewed to the Word of God. But God had His hand on my life, and Greater is He that saved me, called me and loved me than He who is in the world. Perhaps, like a fish on a hook, I would flop around for a while out there and pull out a bit here and there, but sooner or later, I was going to come in whether the devil liked it or not. I was destined to become a testimony for Christ, and the devil couldn't stop it, no matter how hard he tried, and I did Praise God! And to Jesus Christ be all the Glory! Today, I can honestly say that I have touched thousands of souls for Jesus Christ over the years.

The enemy lost his hold over my life, and the purposes and plans of Christ Jesus prevailed. So yes, over time, I became an Ordained Minister of the Gospel. Yes, I got myself degrees and certificates. But honestly, it was my obedience to the voice of the living God and putting one foot in front of the other, time after time, regardless of what would try to stop me. My obedience to the calling of the Great Commission was what brought forth the fruit of that calling, not all the papers on the wall, in my desk drawer, or in my pocketbook. So, believe me when I say that what God did for me, He can do for you. PRAYER: Father God, in the Mighty Name of Jesus, I thank You for the testimony that You have given each of us. Remind us daily of the first kisses, the first embrace, and the first look of love we received from You. Bring us back to the fire of our first love with and for You. Holy Spirit, empower us to continue to be a testimony daily in our walk with You. Use us as Your instrument, vessel, and voice to all we meet in our daily walk. Let the power of our first testimony and how we came to know You affect others as we step out in boldness and share it with them. Bring to our minds all that You have done for us and how we may use it to empower a generation with Your deliverance, healing power, and love for them. Order our steps, Oh Lord, so that all who we meet will in some way need and be blessed with the testimonies that You have given us. I thank You for those Awesome testimonies. I also thank You ahead of time for all that You are going to do in our lives for Your glory. Father, I thank You for empowering me to remember the good testimonies You gave me. Father, I thank You for opening doors of Your favor to go forth and share my testimonies with all the people You have predestined me to bless and empower others with the goodness of God for our lives. I thank You, Lord, that I will never let the fires of my first love with you go out, and if I ever do, I thank You, Lord, that You will bring me back quickly to where I need to be. You on fire in me, and me on fire with You to fire up others for Your Glory. (for the rest of the book, go to Amazon.com or purchase through me personally) Many Blessings, Sarah Jansson

'We Will Not Comply' with Pandemic Treaty, 26 Republican Governors Tell WHO

by Suzanne Burdick, Ph.D.,
The Defender | September 4, 2024

This article was originally published by The Defender — Children's Health Defense's News & Views Website. Visit childrenshealthdefense.org

Twenty-six U.S. governors — over half of the nation's state leaders — have stated publicly that they will not comply with a World Health Organization (WHO)-led global attempt at controlling U.S. Americans' health. In their Aug. 29 statement, the 26 governors — all Republicans — and the Republican Governors Association accused the WHO of "attempting one world control over health policy" by promoting a "pandemic agreement" or "pandemic treaty." "Put simply," they wrote, "Republican Governors will not comply." Since 2021, the WHO has been drafting proposals for a pandemic agreement and amendments to its International Health Regulations. During the organization's most recent World Health Assembly session, which ended on June 1, WHO negotiators did not agree on a final draft of a pandemic agreement. However, they did make "concrete commitments to completing negotiations on a global pandemic agreement within a year, at the latest, and possibly in 2024," the WHO stated. Health freedom activist Dr. Meryl Nass, an internist and founder of Door to Freedom, an organization that lobbied against the WHO pandemic treaty proposals, told The Defender the governors' statement is "very necessary at this time" because the United Nations (U.N.) — which runs the WHO — "seeks to gain world control over emergencies such as cyber emergencies, supply chain emergencies or outer space emergencies." "The jig is up," Nass said. "It has become widely understood that the U.N. system is being used in an attempt to centralize its control and usurp national sovereignty." The governors said they refuse to comply with a WHO pandemic agreement because it would consolidate power in the hands of the WHO, thereby threatening national sovereignty, states' rights and U.S. Americans' constitutionally guaranteed freedoms. Nass said: "This was every Republican governor in the United States with the single exception of Vermont Republican governor [Phil Scott]. He governs a state that is strongly Democrat and may have felt he could not expend the political capital required to go along and make this statement unanimous." The 26 governors pointed to a May 22 letter to President Joe Biden in which 24 Republican governors voiced their concerns about the WHO's proposal. According to the letter, the WHO's proposed treaty would "empower the WHO, particularly its uncontrollable Director-General, with the authority to restrict the rights of U.S. citizens, including freedoms such as speech, privacy, travel, choice of medical care, and informed consent, thus violating our Constitution's core principles." WHO fails to pass pandemic treaty but says it's still committed to it For more than two years, the WHO has been trying to pass a pandemic treaty deal. In December 2021, the agency's World Health Assembly established an "intergovernmental negotiating body" to draft an international agreement under the WHO's constitution to strengthen the agency's pandemic prevention, preparedness and response. The U.S. federal government supported the initiative. Although WHO negotiators disagreed on a final draft of the agreement during the most recent World Health Assembly session, they did approve a set of revisions to the WHO's International Health Regulations. However, the approved revisions did not include many of the most restrictive proposals that worried health freedom advocates. The Defender reported. Nass wrote on her Substack that the World Health Assembly "had to adopt something to save face, and it had become apparent to the globalists that they would not do any better if they delayed a decision." U.S. states' actions 'central' to defeating WHO pandemic plan Action by U.S. states was "central" to defeating the WHO plan to centralize control of public health during declared emergencies, Nass told The Defender. "Children's Health Defense and Door to Freedom were central in devising this strategy," she said, adding: "The Constitution's 10th Amendment reserves for the states all powers that were not specifically granted to the central government. Healthcare was never a federal authority. "Therefore, we urged citizens to contact their attorneys general, governors, legislators — and federal officials — to demand they not turn over authority for health to the WHO." In May, in addition to 24 governors writing their letter of opposition, 49 senators called on the Biden administration to reject the WHO agreement. Additionally, 22 attorneys general told Biden they would "resist any attempt to enable the WHO to directly or indirectly set public policy for our citizens." Numerous states — including Utah, Florida, Louisiana and Oklahoma — wrote legislation to prevent the WHO from overriding states' authority on matters of public health policy. "I am certain," Nass added, "that these efforts reverberated around the world and helped lead to rejection" of the WHO's proposals.

Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner Tracey Rzepka's Journey Through Drugs, Rape, and A call to Africa

From Page:1 ...sions working with the poor. After graduation, I started a job at the health department in Fort Myers. During my clinicals in school, I was assigned to an STD clinic. I wanted to work in general medicine instead of the STD clinic, so I complained. There was a Christian nurse there who told me that no matter where you work there are going to be clients with STDs. I had no idea I would end up working full-time in an STD clinic after graduation, but God knew and prepared me. During that time, I had clients who were HIV positive, which then prepared me to work in an HIV clinic in Sarasota from 1994-1997. In May 1992, during a weekend Christian retreat, I met my friend Linda, whose ex-husband was in prison. He was a pastor who later became mentally ill. After she divorced him, because she was afraid that her sons would be hurt or hurt her husband, he came to her house, raped her, and ended up in prison. In August 1992, while living in Fort Myers, I had a boyfriend who wanted to be sexually involved.

I was saying no and decided to break up with him at the May Christian Retreat. In August, he came to my house and raped me. Before we broke up, he was attending church with me in Fort Myers. The weekend he raped me, he was at my church for a men's fellowship on Saturday, then came to my house on Sunday after church and raped me, and then went to the church in Fort Myers. He was arrested in the church parking lot. Linda was the person I called after the rape, and I waited until she arrived. Together, we called the police. He was arrested and later went to prison for two years. The morning he pled guilty, God gave me assurance through scripture, and I prayed that he would plead guilty to prevent a court case, and he did. The rape deeply affected me. Linda was a Godsend in helping me get through that time. In 1994, I started taking medication for depression because I was losing weight, could not sleep, and was in pain. I had prayed and prayed, but it was the medication that was the answer to prayer and saved my life though I had thought it was from the devil and did not want to take medication. During the time of my deepest depression, I was working in the HIV clinic where young, talented men were dying of AIDS, which was also depressing. But God gave me a deep love for them. Those with a positive attitude did better than those who were using drugs and alcohol and were afraid to die. This later led me to go back to school to learn psychiatry. I wanted to help people to work on the mind and spirit which is the root of many illnesses. In January of 1996, I attended a Christian Medical and Dental Association singles ski conference in Colorado. God gave me a vision of doing part-time missions work. I would go to Africa for three months, Colorado for three months, and then somewhere else for three months, etc. I joined YWAM Harpenden in the UK in January of 1997 for a three-month Discipleship Training School. The outreach was in Soroti, Uganda, for three months, doing HIV training in the villages in churches with members of Protestant, Catholic, and even some Muslim people in the groups. It is rare to get these groups together and they loved the trainings and interaction. We taught people what HIV is, how to prevent it, how to live positively with HIV, and how to minister to those with HIV. We used scripture in the training. From 1997-2014 I traveled to Uganda for 1-3 months at a time and three one-year periods in different places. I wasn't doing well physically in Uganda in 2006, so I came home and was diagnosed with hyperthyroidism. But I was determined to return to Africa. The following year, I went back and then was diagnosed with brucellosis from unpasteurized cow's milk. I was treated and remained there that time for a year. In another trip, I went from Uganda through Rwanda, Congo, Burundi, and then through Lake Tanganyika on a cargo ship for two days and nights. I was the only white girl on the ship and slept on the deck by myself. It was a great trip! We landed in Zambia where after another 8-hour bus ride, we did an HIV training and then went to Botswana. On this trip, we visited a YWAMer in the Democratic Republic of Congo which has been at war since 1996, with over 6 million killed and many women raped. I gave my testimony of having been raped to women that had been raped at a hospital where they were being ring COVID lockdowns, cared for. I was so thankful God allowed me to share my testimony with them. When I was in Uganda the first time in 1997, I was in a town in Northeastern Uganda next to Karamoja. The Karamojong are people like the Maasai. They wear lots of beads and colorful attire. The warriors are cattle herders and have guns and steal cattle, and kill people at times. I met a friend there in 1998, Reverend Sam, who was under the Anglican church. He has the gift of being able to mobilize and motivate people. He can get a thousand of the warriors together for a Christian conference in the middle of absolutely nowhere. He has planted many churches under the Anglican Church and recently under the Reformed Anglican Church. So now, instead of doing HIV ministry, we are helping him to plant these churches. We have supported them in different ways, including funding the drilling of two wells. I thank God for providing the means to continue this ministry with one donor who has continued to give $50/month since 2007 and a few new donors. One of which paid for one of the wells, which cost $10,000. We are also supporting a friend doing prison ministry, helped feed people in 2020 du-

etc. I am working under Global Outreach International as a Missions Project Coordinator. God has blessed me with my own practice in 2015 providing Psychiatric Medication Management as a Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner in Sarasota. I am able to help those suffering from depression, anxiety, insomnia, bipolar disorder, addictions, etc. God has watched over me throughout my life. He's used my painful experiences to help me to minister to my patients who have experienced child abuse, rape, and other struggles. I'm able to comfort others with the same comfort God has given me. He DOES work out ALL things for the good of those who love Him. 2 Cor 1:3-4 — Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of compassion and the God of all comfort, who comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves receive from God. God is so faithful. globaloutreach.org/giving/missionary-details/tracey-rzepka

Three generations of imbeciles are enough

The famous words of the U.S. Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes

By Pastor Chuck Kennedy | www.ficcWordChurch.org | www.God-isReal.com

Are Governments, the wealthy elite, and big corporations culling the world's population to produce a designer species of beings they deem acceptable and worthy of life? It sounds like a far-fetched science fiction movie or thriller novel, but sadly, it is historically accurate and continues today. Like chameleons, though, they just change their appearance to blend in with "the science of today" and the supposed betterment of society.

In a landmark 1927 decision, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld Virginia's forced sterilization law in the infamous Buck v. Bell case. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, delivering the court's opinion, chillingly remarked, "Three generations of imbeciles are enough," setting a legal precedent for eugenics-based sterilization practices across the nation. This ruling paved the way for the involuntary sterilization of tens of thousands of Americans deemed "unfit," marking one of the darkest chapters in U.S. legal and medical history. The case became a cornerstone of eugenics policy, influencing sterilization laws nationwide.

Eugenics, as a movement, was more accepted publicly without disguise in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, particularly in the U.S., the U.K., and Nazi Germany. It aimed at improving the genetic quality of human populations through selective breeding, forced sterilizations, and other unethical practices. After World War II, when eugenics became widely discredited due to its association with Nazi atrocities, it transformed into a more subtle identity to continue the original purpose of selective breeding and population control.

It is shocking, to say the least when this movement's revelation and its depth in world society and governments are realized. I always thought that government, science, medicine, and the like were to be totally trusted and only had my best interest at heart. What a deception! Yet this is precisely the narrative that propaganda media aim to project to unsuspecting and gullible individuals.

John 8:32 And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

Between the 1900s and 1970s, more than 60,000 individuals were forcibly sterilized in the U.S. alone under these eugenics policies. In the U.S., the Supreme Court upheld forced sterilization laws in the case Buck v. Bell, with doctors as key players in diagnosing patients for sterilization.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes's statement that "three generations of imbeciles are enough" reflected the widespread medical acceptance of eugenic sterilization. It, more importantly, showed the spirit behind this delusion of eugenics, the hater of mankind, satan himself. Recent advances in gene-editing technologies like CRISPR have brought eugenics-related concerns back into the public sphere. These technologies allow for the potential editing of human embryos to "fix" genetic disorders or even enhance traits like intelligence, athleticism, or appearance, raising ethical questions about the resurgence of selective breeding and genetic inequality, aka designer babies.

During the mid-20th century, many global institutions, including the World Bank, WHO, and other development agencies, supported population control programs that echoed eugenics rhetoric. After the exposure of the horrible crimes against humanity by the Nazis directly related to eugenics, now these programs have changed public appearance to family planning, women's rights, and voluntary health services. Changing the name only masks the real agenda for better acceptance.

Especially in the early 20th century, but even now, eugenics has attracted support from prominent individuals, corporations, and government agencies. Its legacy has persisted in various ways through social policies and scientific developments. Here are some of the most famous people, corporations, and government agencies involved in eugenics from its inception until today: Francis Galton, often regarded as the father of eugenics, coined the term "eugenics" in 1883 and advocated for improving the human race through selective breeding. Galton's ideas laid the foundation for eugenic policies in the U.S. and Europe.

Harry H. Laughlin was a key figure at the Eugenics Record Office; Laughlin was a major advocate of forced sterilization and helped draft eugenics legislation in the U.S., including the Immigration Restriction Act of 1924. Laughlin's work influenced sterilization laws in over 30 U.S. states and inspired Nazi racial policies.

Margaret Sanger is the founder of Planned Parenthood. Under the guise of women's reproductive rights, she aligned with eugenic ideas, particularly regarding voluntary sterilization and birth control for the "unfit." One of the more controversial aspects of Sanger's work was the Negro Project, launched in 1939, which aimed to provide African American communities with access to birth control.

While framed as a public health initiative, critics argue that it was informed by eugenic principles, aiming to reduce the birth rates of marginalized communities. When Sanger founded the American Birth Control League in 1921, which later became Planned Parenthood, the organization was associated with eugenicists who supported birth control for population control and "racial betterment."

Could this have any bearing on why the government fights so diligently to fund and maintain "Planned Parenthood"? Alexander Graham Bell was the inventor of the telephone. Bell served as a vice president of the Second International Congress of Eugenics. Bell advocated for the sterilization of deaf individuals to prevent hereditary deafness.

Winston Churchill was British Prime Minister during WWII; Churchill advocated for compulsory sterilization of the "feeble-minded." Theodore Roosevelt, our 26th President, believed in the importance of breeding among "fit" individuals and supported the idea of preventing those he saw as "unfit" from reproducing.

John D. Rockefeller and his Foundation was a major funder of eugenics research both in the U.S. and Europe, including supporting eugenics programs in Nazi Germany. The foundation's grants helped finance the establishment of eugenics programs that led to forced sterilizations.

Bill Gates Sr. is the father of Microsoft co-founder Bill Gates and was involved with Planned Parenthood, which has historical ties to the eugenics movement.

Kellogg's John Harvey Kellogg, a co-founder of Kellogg's cereal company, fervently supported eugenics and organized the Race Betterment Foundation. Kellogg advocated for racial hygiene, and his foundation promoted eugenic policies, including sterilization and controlled reproduction of the "fit."

California State Government enacted forced sterilization laws that sterilized over 20,000 individuals. California carried out more sterilizations than any other U.S. state, and its eugenics program influenced Nazi Germany's racial hygiene laws.

Extreme wealth, government influence, and major corporations often converge as key players in this movement aimed at controlling the population based on their standard of who is deemed fit or unfit. In essence, these entities are playing God at our expense. This is the height of pride and arrogance, as those with extreme power and wealth believe they are so superior to others in society that they assume the right to decide who is desirable and who should be eliminated.

Henry Kissinger saw controlling population growth as vital for the future of U.S. economic and geopolitical interests. His paper, NSSM 200, suggested that population control should be a collaborative effort between the U.S. and international organizations, such as the United Nations and the World Bank, to ensure that population policies are implemented globally. This is one of many factors playing out in world events today. I do not know who specifically makes the decisions in these matters, but I know the spirit behind it is the devil, and he is preparing the people to accept the coming antichrist and a one-world government. Yet people still believe their perverted persuasion to their own death. It is sad; the scriptures speak of a time when deception is so paramount that even the Godly Elect might be deceived if it were possible.

Matt 24:24 For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; in-somuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.

Is there a connection between abortion and eugenics? The answer is obvious; of course, there is; they are controlling the population and disguising it by leading ladies astray, convincing them they have a "right" to kill because they are told it is their bodies. It is the propaganda play of the ages to have women fight to murder their unborn and believe they are justified in doing so.

Is there a eugenic connection between Biometric Medicine, which monitors and tracks, and mRNA vaccine technology, which changes DNA in humanity? Could they be experimenting with an attempt to develop races they feel are more desirable using medical technology as the platform for best acceptance?

Are they producing a climate of fear to control the masses and then telling them to just trust the "science"? There must be a reason they want this vaccine in every arm in the world and will stop at nothing to achieve that, especially since the man-made disease is no longer a threat worse than the common cold. Is there a connection as to why most new medicines will use this "latest and greatest" new gene-altering technology mRNA? Is there a connection that warrants them to inject cows and livestock, even put it in salads to eat? Why is it so necessary to get this technology under our skin? Is the real goal creating and culling a "designer people" to their specifications, complete with the ability to track and control? You decide.

I realize this may be new and even far-fetched to many of you. I would ask you to pray about this and do your own research, but I need to mention that those funded by this cabal, like Google, Yahoo, and the like, will not give you honest research. Remember, the big corporations play a part in this, and controlling what you know is how they accomplish it. Keep that in mind, but seek the Lord; if you are sincere, He will lead and guide you in this final few moments we still have on planet Earth.

Get into a church that recognizes these end-time events and will instruct you and keep you from the deceptive, wicked practices that will ensnare millions.

Ps 91:7-8 A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked.

One final thought: we must choose forgiveness and love. I don't blame the average person—whether it's a doctor, scientist, or newscaster—because the influence comes from the top, where those in control shape the narrative. The everyday person believes they are doing the right thing, but they, too, are deceived. My final advice: wake up before it's too late.

We offer an online Hour of prayer weekdays from 4 am to 5 am on Facebook to do warfare for these things and more. Join us and help change the world, Pastor Chuck.

WHERE ARE YOU GOING WHEN YOU DIE? HEAVEN OR HELL?

WHAT YOU NEED TO DO, IS SIMPLY:

• - Admit that you are a sinner. Romans 3:23 "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God."

- REPENT AND ASK HIM TO FORGIVE YOUR SINS

Romans 5:8 "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

confess now that Jesus is Lord of your life. Romans 10:9-10 "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. 10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."
